Villa Kumo is a contemporary residence in the gated enclave of El Herrojo, La Quinta, defined by cathedral ceilings in dark timber, natural stone floors and full-height glazing that shapes light throughout the home. Open-plan living areas flow through a central salon, dining space and a large marble kitchen designed for daily use. A dedicated lower level includes a private wellness area with sauna, plunge pool, gym and treatment room, alongside a climate-controlled wine cellar and car gallery. The principal suite features a pitched ceiling, boutique-style dressing area and a marble bathroom with sea views. Outside, the property offers an infinity pool, dining pergola and landscaped gardens with mature planting, creating a private, fully integrated living environment.
